enter at length into the question & the Law relative & discussions the doctrine & Inscription of Texas which Brazil only Country held sacred. My husband thinks it so clear & excellent that he enclosed it to a clergyman in Glasgow (Mrs Trenton's Son in Law) with whom he has lately had some correspon-dence relative to the American Anti Slavery Soc.
In conclusion - two pieces say - Tho' it can scarcely be necessary - that this letter is wholly in private perusal Again Adieu

of numbers, tho' not of influence, having been scarcely two "infidelity & Lloyd Garrison" & Co. But you have true & faithful friends in Mrs & Miss Leighton. Eliza wrote me the other day that she & her brother & two other Lady had babtized in Londonderry for four hours, against Miss Julia & Lewis Light & Lee handed together on her side. Never mind. Truth is mighty & will prevail. The wicked will not always triumph.

Will you give my kindest regards to your wife & children & believe me my dear friend with many apologies for this hasty scribble. Write, ever to remain your very sincere friend

Eliz. P. Nichols

Mrs truly should I rejoice to see your hand writing once more. Letters as I deserve Sir.

It was but yesterday that I was writing over some of your highly prized letters - one of which - the one you may remember bears in '49 in which you have appeared in our Glasgow papers. We have also seen how far it would be wise to publish these in any way publicly in manner, but correspondence has been going on in several directions of a more private nature, which we think will at least tend to make that party a little more guarded in their proceedings hitherto we have thought it appropriate in withholding the insertion into some of our papers of Jay's admirable article from the "Liberty Bell" - but it shall not be lost sight of - an indirect reply is better many of us think, than a direct battle of their attacks, which would only draw attention to them & give greater publicity - to Julia Griffiths & her mission. We have not seen Lucy Stone Lately - Neither do we believe she has made much way in Glasgow except amongst those who had previously espoused their side; & many she has done more in London - The Clergy there have taken up her cause & there is a divided feeling amongst the Members & the ladies connected - some of them - a majority, I believe, in favour cultivation & growth.

We have read Mrs. Chapman's account of the Bazaar with very great interest. Her return to America without visiting us here was a great disappointment to the friends of the cause here - but husband & I have often regretted that circumstances had not permitted us the opportunity of having known of her during her long residence this side the Atlantic; her presence amongst you again, must give a fresh impulse to the cause with you.

Our channels of communication with this country are so various that I do not suppose I can tell you any thing of importance, which you have not already been informed - of the doings either of friends or enemies here. The latter - stirred up to double & treble exertions, have been rather active & like circulars - copies of which I have already to Wendell Phillips & which, I believe you think the Patons have sent to you have been issued by the New Organization in Edinburgh & certainly deserving of the despicable & Abolition

- ists

But more than enough respecting "A" & his letter - let me now allude to an in-dividual & a different stamp - another friend B. F. Stevens Esq:- he writes you no Rubs & his letters but he is too modest to speak of their value which his friends have just to be great - His meetings gain pest Letters & he more personal intercourse with such a man binds and nastily to this pet the prejudice which has been infused into many minds against the leaders of the American A. S. S. - to prevent the shafts of the enemy from gaining admittance into many more. We have seen little of him compared with what we could have desired - are exceedingly disappointed to learn by a recent letter, that there is no much chance of our having another visit from him, as we had fully calculated on his time appearing to be sketched out up to the intended period of his return to his native land - Nor can I see how him to delay that return when we re-member in what a length of time his wife & family have been deprived of his society - but his departure will be a great loss to the cause in this land - Upon the field here is not safe -ficiently important to render it worth while for him to return & spend further hundred to a hundred & fifty that introductions were out of the question. & it was with extreme regret that I heard after the company were gone that he had been here. for I certainly should have thrown back to guide an opportunity of expressing my sentiments on the subject on which it is pretty clear from me & other circumstances incidental at-tention in his letter, he is somewhat sensitive. Still more did we all regret that Parker Pillsbury was prevented by hoarseness from speaking as he had fully intended to. The "Lado" of whom "F." speaks was a highly intelligent scientific gentleman deputed to attend the meeting of the asso.n by the Pasha of Egypt - himself a native Prince of that country. I only just got a glance at Smith Carolinian shoe-ing horse with ladies & gentlemen flocked around & eagerly conversed with one of the "despised race" - but am I sorry to find that the same eye charmed to fall on the anti-slavery despatch-ment & pour libation, for besides thank-ing Mr Garrison for the Liberator back he w.d probably perceive some line & Whittier, Lowell "hail to the Slave" - besides "Tribute to the Negro" "Liberty Bell" - writings of Mrs. L. Garrison". I do illness. I might add the voyage tended greatly to the restoration of your health & strength. Whilst I am writing, a wish from you to spend the greatest pleasure to many true friends here, whom the breath of calumny has not succeeded to turn away from you. And I think I can say that nowhere would you meet a sincerer welcome than at the Observatory. Adieu, my dear Walter. Now that I have begun, subjects crowd upon me & I am convinced already that I shall not find room to touch on one half that I am wanted. But first & last, I must say a few private words to you on a portion of that strange letter respecting the British Association, to which Dr. Dalton would not, of course allude in a communication intended for the public eye. The letter signed "X." which appears in the "Liberator" of Feb. 8. is written, we cannot doubt, by a gentleman named Hammond from (I think) So. Carolina. He brought an introduction to Dr. D. but unfortunately we were out when he called with it. My husband subsequently invited him to a large but small party where we had during the Assoc. A load to large, many being probably from a

Elizabeth Pease Nichol to W.L. Garrison

Observatory. Glasgow
Feb. 27. 1856

7

My dear Friend

So long an interval has occurred in our correspondence that I feel on again resuming the pen, as tho' I knew not how or on what topics to touch. Yet I could not consistently with my own feelings permit my husband's visit to go unaccompanied by a line of affectionate remembrance from myself. We wish only for the purpose of proving the assurance that whatever standing silence has subsisted so long between us, we have not ceased to watch your labours with the most sincere interest. How do I know that I never more tenderly longed for personal intercourse of thought with you than I have done of late. But for myself I merely say that I would give me such real delight, that you & my dear husband should become personally acquainted. Is there no hope of our seeing you again on this side the Atlantic? I was sorry to hear that you had been suffering from

8